

BOEING AND THE BLUES

With its Boeing F/A-18 Hornets crisscrossing the sky in knife-edge precision, the U.S. Navy's Blue Angels aerobatic demonstration team has thrilled millions at air shows around the world. But the Boeing connection with the Blues doesn't end with the aircraft. For nearly a quarter-century, Boeing Shared Services Group has produced the Blue Angels' team yearbook, video and other printed material for each air-show season. This photo, from the Blues' 2010 yearbook, shows a Hornet at sunset at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Fla., home base for the Blue Angels. For more photos of the Blue Angels by Boeing photographer Ron Bookout, visit www.boeing.com/news/frontiers/archive/2010/february/qt_infocus.html on the Frontiers Web site. PHOTO: RON BOOKOUT/BOEING